Presented by DITP

About DITP

---

The Department of International Trade Promotion (DITP) was established under Thailand's Ministry of Commerce, to assist in building the competitiveness of Thai manufacturers and exporters to fulfill their potentials. With more challenges and opportunities within the new world economy, the DITP aims to provide efficient and friendly trade with Thailand services.

Overseas Thai Trade Centers (TTC), under the supervision of the DITP, are located in major cities around the world to implement policies and activities, with special focus on fostering trade relations between Thai exporters and potential importers. In addition, the offices also analyze relevant information and give reports on emerging trends and developments.

For those interested in trading with Thailand, please do not hesitate to contact us or our overseas offices nearest to you.

To stimulate and improve manual dexterity in seniors, award-winning educational toy maker Tano has launched grand beehive, made of solid wood and non-toxic colour. This memory game enhances fine motor skill and eye-hand coordination. Players take turns in putting the bees back in their wooden hive. Since the honey cells have different depths and the bee pins different base sizes, each move has to ensure a perfect fit. The winner is the one who gets rid of all the bees first.

BEYOND PLASTIC

Beyond Plastic is an eco-development project that provides entrepreneurs who make products out of plastic - whether gifts, home and office items, kitchenware or items for daily necessities - with environmentally friendly options so that they can produce well-designed eco-products.

Today, consumers increasingly care about the environment, and they know that plastic is a non-biodegradable source of pollution. While foreign markets are demanding more environmentally friendly products, some SMEs have yet to adjust their products to meet growing market demands. For this reason, the Office of Lifestyle Trade Promotion launched this plastic product development project in 2020. The office invited 10 entrepreneurs who create lifestyle products made of plastic to join the project. Environmental agencies educated them about using Eco Plastic raw materials, which comprise both recycled and bio plastics, and design experts advised them on how to use Eco Plastics effectively to improve their products. The entrepreneurs' results have inspired both their advisors and other entrepreneurs. And they also showed that switching from traditional plastic to Eco Plastic barely alters the production process and doesn't increase costs as much as one might expect.

To reduce the amount of trash and pollution with unique designs and thoughtful production process, Wenique avoids the common recycling method of plastic pallets processing - which heavily consumes time and energy. Instead, Wenique upcycles single-use plastic bags by molding them together with natural raw materials such as hemp and rubber. Explore the extensive collection of “Vegan Leather” products which range from stylish handbags to eco-friendly home and office accessories.

CIRCULAR ECONOMY

Project to Develop Thai Textile Products for the Global Market Under the Concept of Circular Economy.

The Department of International Trade Promotion has adapted the Thai government's economic model for sustainable development, or BCG Economy (Bio-Circular-Green Economy), to combine with biodiversity and culture, which are both strengths and distinct identities of Thailand, to initiate a project to develop Thai fabric products for the world market under the concept of circular economy. The aim is to promote and support the distribution of income, reducing inequality, strengthening the sense of community, and giving importance to the environment and sustainable development. According to this economic concept, the circular resource management in the system (Re-material) converts used items back to raw materials for making new products (Make-Use-Return) and reduces the need for depleting the world's precious resources. It plays an important role in driving fashion production and consumption trends towards sustaining a beautiful world. Textile fashion products apparel and lifestyle fashion that appear in this collection come from Thai entrepreneurs who have participated full force in the concepts underlying this development activities—including raw materials, production processes and design—until resulting in this latest collection of outstanding products that meet the requirements of a wide range of applications, with every brand displaying innovation and uniqueness. Ready to meet the modern lifestyle of living in an environmentally friendly way, every production is able to contribute to a world of sustainable fashion and reduce wasteful use of resources. This collection is perfect for those who are seeking products made from Sustainable Materials, Sustainable Processes, Waste Production, Local Production, Crafts and Community.

DEMARK AWARD

The Birth of a Thai Design Award.

Design Excellence Award (DEmark) was established in 2008 in order to give recognition to outstanding product design. It is in conjunction with the Prime Minister's Export Award (PM Export Award) which is presented annually by the Prime Minister under the auspices of Thailand Office of Innovation and Value Creation, Department of International Trade Promotion, Ministry of Commerce, Royal Thai Government. The selected products receive the DEmark logo for outstanding design, which can be used to promote well-designed Thai products and services in the international market. It is hoped that this award will help promote development of domestic products, which will in turn better the quality of life of both domestic and international consumers.

The Department of International Trade Promotion (DITP) receives cooperation from The Japan External Trade Organization (JETRO) and the Japan Institute of Design Promotion (JDP) in determining the judging criteria for DEmark Award of Thailand, inviting experts to be judges in this contest and also help promote the DEmark Award to be widely accepted in the international arena.

This year, there are 496 outstanding design works from 246 Thai entrepreneurs and designers that participated in the contest. Representatives from both governmental and private sectors, as well as the media were invited as members of judging committee. A total of 72 products and services from 44 companies were awarded the DEmark. In addition, 15 DEmark products and services from 11 companies were selected to received the Good Design Award 2020 (G-Mark).

Due to the lifestyle and consumption habits that have changed from the current epidemic causing a huge change in both human behavior and living throughout the world. As we are young designers, we want to create products that are suitable for our modern world. This crisis has accelerated the reaction of human behavior to new behaviors such as eating at home, ordering food to eat at home, and social distancing. Due to the changing lifestyles, we see the problem of today's container that require social distancing. Even if using a serving spoon still not very safe. We then put together a familiar container in the past such as the hole dish that we used in childhood as inspiration for the design. To make it modern, pleasant to use, full of memories and suitable for today's society through our passion for ceramic. When these two items are combined, it becomes a "Jarn-Deaw", a work of art that reminds you of the past and it can be used in everyday life.

Herbal inhalant is a Thai traditional medicine that can be found in Thai people's household for a long time. Because of its quality, it is widely-recognized by foreigners as well. From a research of Thai herbal medicine market abroad, it is found that the market has expanded hugely especially in China and Asia. However, the image of Thai herbal medicine has not been improved for decades. We, therefore, have developed a new concept for Thai herbal medicine, and the idea comes simply with the slogan that says "herbal inhalant is for cool people, not for biker gangs" Our designers would like to present the new image for herbal inhalant, and make it more modern and cool when someone pull it out to use.

The Chinese calligraphy has a long history and has been part of the Chinese culture for many generations. It is seen as an art form where it is not only considered as decorative art, but viewed as a supreme visual art form. Each artist has their own techniques and styles; the brush strokes and ink flow are believed to be an expression of the artist's inner psychology. Due to migrations, these Chinese traditions and cultures has also been a part of and embedded in the Thai culture for various generations as well. The sleek, straight lines, of modern designs were incorporated with the ancient art form in order to create pieces that are aesthetically pleasing for the modern market.

A pattern showing sleek colour scheme, which reminds us of nature-created beautiful Jewel beetles' elytra, coupled with "Yan Lipao" craft result in a new and appealing design concept. The design concept is an integration of existed yan lipao traditional weaving patterns in forms of graphic designs which are further developed to become contemporary design patterns, and special production technique that contributes to sleek colours. The design concept therefore reflects the beauty of the past through modernity of the digital age, but remains a Thai identity.

ZERO is inspired by natural curves that embrace its unique patterns. The handle is designed to be different from the traditional type, adding a creative touch to daily coffee making experiences. ZERO based the design on the zero-waste concept, reducing production waste to zero and the creation of value for the agricultural waste from DoiTung brand products. By using vetiver grass, and macadamia nut shells as alternative fuel sources for the baking process, the result is splashes of white pattern, creating special contrast patterns on the black product surface.

We are designing a cross-cultural product with meaningful technology. “Culture” plays an important role in the design field, and “cross cultural design” will be a key design evaluation point in the future. Designing “culture” into modern product will be a design trend in the global market. We need a better understand of cross-cultural communication not only for the global market, but also for local design. While cross-cultural factors become important issues for product design in the global economy, the intersection of design and culture becomes a key issue making both local design and the global market worthy of further in-depth study and new product design and development. The importance of designing a product with cultures is shown repeatedly in several studies and products in all areas of technology design.

Traditional Jewelry package often stores few or even single item of jewelry inside, they are oftentimes designed from paper carton box as a single-use package only. IMPRINT Jewelry box strongly oppose to single-use package idea. We believe that package must be reusable and renewable even with multi-function ideas in mind. Jewelry Package is vital for the first impression as it often uses as part of a special occasion, it holds special sentimental value to who received it thus jewelry should be properly stored to keep memories alive. An antique leatherback book design also reflects our brand core concept "IMPRINT, your ring, your story" with personalized message ring which all our product designs are named as Chapter 1, 2 and 3 etc. Each and Every time customer store their jewelry inside the box will always evoke the image of our Brand "Imprint".

more...than expectation | millennials | multi-purpose | multifunction | more space saving | movable | and more. The main design concept of this multi-purpose chair emanates from the 'Sustainable Design' by which its outlook has been reinterpreting and alternating with the focus on its "value and connotation" of beauty. Its focal point is to design proportionate size, and select requisite and sufficient materials conforming to the derivable comfort through the finesse, lightweight, relaxed, and graceful proportion. Closely attentive usage detail has also been focused on structure of the chair, seating base and backrest alike, to support healthy and comfortable sitting. Make it be astonishingly comfortable with multi- and space saving function much more than expected from its appearance and proportion. Design with 'Millennials in Mind', representing its unique lifestyle and behavior.

“Walee” is Thai word refer to “Phrase” means “a small group of words” when combined, it becomes a form of “sentence”. Many small end-grain pieces of cracks wood, no one gave the value. When it’s combined, maybe it is a reflection of a “bench” which has got the meaning. And if this “bench” is “a form the sentence” when we build it with our hearts, sometimes we will get the beautiful bench.

Bookshelf “Siam” is a collaboration between two local product brands from Chiang Mai between Moonler and Siam Celadon. The designer of Moonler wants to use local materials such as celadon to blend into furniture. The idea came from the sight of sighting “ceramic vases” that are displayed on the shelves that are made of wood or sometimes “ceramic cup” that is placed just to show its beauty alone in which the cup is not responsible for adding water. The designer, therefore, wanted to capture this beautiful moment into the new furniture. By thought about if the ceramics were originally designed as part of the furniture, it would make the ordinary bookshelf can create more value. This is the story of the bookshelf from chamchuri wood in which there are bookmarks and vases of celadon that can be arranged alternately.

Design Thinking process includes; 1. Define the problem: Everyone's idea of what makes a wine "good" differs and most people struggle to articulate what they want. The Elements is an intuitive system embedded in many Asian cultures which makes it easy for people to choose a glass that suits their preferences. 2. Product development: We explored how standard glass features i.e. rim dimension, bowl height, width and tapering affect perception of wine's aroma, taste and texture. We amplified these effects by adding waists to help preserve or release aromas depending on whether the wine is at rest or moving. 3. Wine tasting: We conducted wine tasting with various groups of wine drinkers – newcomers and experts – to ensure the completed coverage of wine consumers without revealing the concept to validate the effects of the different shapes.

Ray planter was designed on the idea of creating a new plastic economy from the time we used plastic once. Or is often used to produce products that are not very valued produces a lot of hard-to-digest waste, but Ray planter is made of high quality PE plastic Has a long service life, can withstand the sun, and can also be made from waste plastic or plastic waste according to the circular economy concept. From black plant pots that are usually included when buying a tree, we designed Ray Planter to put the plant and the pot on it, without having to throw away. The pots that we designed, both small and medium sizes Including adding value by using both pots Size can be stacked together To create a new shape For use in public areas Or a larger area Which has a water tray that has self-watering function and can be turned back into a different type of chair.

Handing off a Legacy: Passing into the present
Talk about Thai arts and crafts, what clearly represents is “meticulousness”. As technological advancements are hugely changing the manufacturing process, the combination of decorative arts and crafts together with innovative materials and manufacturing technology give +sense design problem statement. Reflected in the elegantly contemporary dining chair which boldly reflects the heritage and charm of Thai crafts, the designer carried out doing experiments with the modification of new and different aluminum pipe shapes to create more delicate and aesthetically pleasing structure. Also, combining the design detail that uses leftover aluminum and teak materials help create a unique structure that nicely assimilate Thai handicrafts which is the cultural capital, industrial arts and craftsmanship.

“SAN PAD Collection” of RENIM PROJECT is inspired by a traditional Thai hand fan which has been creating for decades by Thai wisdom. A hand-fan is normally use in a kitchen to cook with stove also can be used as a fan to release the heat. This local craftsmanship created from bamboo woven crafted by hand. RENIM PROJECT aims to continue Thai craftsmanship, a valuable traditional Thai hand-fan technique by designing bags which remade from 5 vintage jeans, cut them into lines with technique of ear jeans to make them stronger. Using the same technique with 5 leftover cement bags, cut into lines. Hand woven recycled jeans and leftover cement bags together as the technique of a traditional hand fan, lining inside the bag with a leftover cement bag as well to decrease its weight and decorating some part with waste of real leather from a factory. RENIM PROJECT designs and creates these bags to encourage people to value recycled waste and help each other decreasing waste of our world.

For the past few years, Thailand has been slowly shifting into a plastic-free society. Retailers and consumers are switching to reusable fabric bags, which reminds us of the days when classic Thai tote bags, known as “Thung Yaam” (ถุงย่าม), were in trend. With its thick shoulder strap, a wide opening, and a size that is portable yet large enough to store everyday items, we wanted to revive this classic design with a little twist. Our goal is to create a product that is nostalgic, as well as innovative in its function and materiality. Natural rubber is our solution. Along with its durability and elasticity, rubber is easy to clean and maintain. Since Thailand is one of the top producers of rubber in the world, the material is readily and locally available. Furthermore, natural rubber is biodegradable and can be recycled. We aim to break the stereotype that rubber-based products are solely functional and unfashionable; this is where our concept of a “Environmental-friendly Rubber-bag” (directly translating to “condom” in Thai) kick started.

Inspired by the grandparents in the community who cannot hold objects firmly in their hands and are having hard times taking good care of their health. With the findings that when people get older, their oral cavity tissue will become more sensitive and fragile. Their overall muscles, including the hand muscles, cannot control or create forces properly. The elderly will be more susceptible to health degeneration which contributes to many vascular and immune-related diseases. The purpose of this product is to make tooth brushing an easier and healthier task for the elderly, and let them be more confident about their own abilities. It can also be applied perfectly for the people who suffer from muscle weakness by assisting better grip for their hands.

Currently Thailand, the number of hearing impaired people is increasing to 330,488.

Unfortunately, we still haven't seen or known them in our society. According to my research, the deaf society is a closed community. They have their own relationship inside the group without external interaction. The main problem is "The Communication" which the deaf use Thai sign language. This is the major problem to communicate with the masses. Thailand has made many efforts to help the deaf to understand the masses. But no work can promote the outsider to access the hearing impaired. I want to present a new perspective of the deaf to outsider. The key to this issue is "The Sign Language". This language isn't a universal language as everyone thinks. Example, Sign language in the US (ASL) is only used within the US, can't communicate with others. This situation makes it more difficult in Thailand because this issue hasn't yet been realized so that I saw the bigger gap of Thai Sign Language.

ZEQUENZ notebook was created by the idea of reducing all the limitation one's find when using a notebook and perfecting all those limits. The designer had long been in the paper business and craftworks has been one of her many adorations. By paying attention and loving all the little details in craftworks, it made her well aware of how a good notebook should be. The designer wanted it to be the simplest notebook with the most thoroughly thoughts and ideas behind it. The notebook should represent its user's personalities yet stay looking humble and not outshining its user.

DEWA

DEWA, the Design from Waste of Agriculture project, was initiated by the Department of International Trade Promotion in 2014, recognizing that as a top producer of agricultural products, Thailand often has a surplus of agricultural products.

The Department of International Trade Promotion invited expert product designers and representatives from agencies that promote innovation to research and develop how to transform agricultural products, natural vegetation, and other unwanted materials into new raw materials and creative lifestyle products and then to offer advice to entrepreneurs about how to utilize these materials in their products.

Examples include producing glazes for ceramic products made from wood and leaves leftover from the production of lye, using rubber in the manufacture of household products, and using recycled paper, rags, and used packaging to create modern jewellery.

In addition to product development, the program also emphasizes co-branding, which brings the advantages of two entrepreneurs working together to create new product development opportunities for them.

Examples include a joint venture between glass and lotus leaf manufacturers from Koh Kau in Lampang Province. They researched the use of lotus leaves and glass in decor and wall art, leading to the creation of mirrors with the texture of lotus leaves, reflecting a perfect combination of innovation and nature.

BSG Glass specialized in glass production for architectural and interior purposes. Seeing the many leftover glass from the cutting and drilling processes, the company thought of a way to add value to this waste. They developed an innovation of foam glass from adding a mixture of glass powder to foaming agents. Then DEWA project expanded on this know-how and incorporated a mold to shape the glass as desired after burning, and reduce the previous cutting process. The foam glass has a tough, smooth surface that is perfect for a diffuser. This one is shaped like mountains, with a stream and pool for aromatic essential oils.

Waste from the entrepreneur's coconut water business. From one of their experiments, K Fresh has found an interesting way to combine coconut coir with polyethylene (PE) bag scraps and recycled plastics pellets. The coconut fiber serves to strengthen the material, whilst the plastics provide a durable, moisture-resistant surface. The material was then developed into a prototype product. These fan ribs were made from PE and coconut coir sheets, which are thin and flexible Whilst the handle was made from recycled plastics and coconut coirastico which is thicker and stronger.

There is nothing new about using leather scraps in product design. However, this decorative material draws on a different take on material; when exposed to moisture the leather becomes soft, though it will harden and retain its shape when dried. Using stamping to cut out desirable shapes before forming and let dry. Additionally, each piece can be connected together to create a larger structure, which then can be used as hanging decorations or as light fixtures.

Palm leaf sheaths were once a waste with no value, when matured and coming loose from the trees they were just thrown together and later incinerated. It has come a long way since then and the leaf sheaths have been converted into single-use food containers that widely replaced their foam counterparts. Project DEWA took it further, layered and laminated to increase strength, and the result is a thick sheet that can be cut and formed like plywood. This fruit tray is a prototype product from our research that pushes the boundaries of a material.

Multi-strand earrings / Bracelet / Necklace

Handmade 95-99% pure matte silver multi-strand earring, bracelet and Necklace. Each bead is individually made by hand and threaded in a traditional way on a cotton thread (usually the husband does the beads and the wife threads the beads). The simple design reveals the beauty of simplicity and the heritage of rural crafts.

Gingko Earrings

Handmade 95-99% pure matte silver gingko earring is inspired by the calling for nature. The gingko is believed in Asian culture to bring good luck. This design is made with the chiseling technique tradition to Karen hilltribe crafts. We invite you to immerse yourself in nature and find peacefulness within.

MATERIAL THAI TO JAPAN

Where Thai Materials meet Innovation Where Crafts meet Creative Designs.

Initiated by the Department of International Trade Promotion (DITP), Ministry of Commerce of Thailand, the Material Thai to Japan project is set to assist Thai entrepreneurs in embarking on international markets as well as to exploit the fast-growing material business. By applying craft skills and indigenous locally sourced materials, Thai designers aim to draw upon artisan skills forms and materials to make functional and stylish lifestyle products.

Transforming Local Treasures into Modern Crafts Thailand has long been known for its artistry and craftsmanship. The country is also blessed with a myriad of materials that can only be sourced and produced locally - from natural materials such as banana leaf, rattan, bamboo, water hyacinth, yan lipao and wood. Other diverse materials can also be fashioned into handloomed textile, indigo-dyed fabrics, to hilltribe embroidered ethnic textile, among many others. To cherish such treasures, the DITP has called for Thai enterprises involved in material businesses to join the Material Thai to Japan project in a series of workshops and intensive guidance by Mr. Junya Kitagawara, a Japanese expert on brand building and marketing of lifestyle products. Approximately 20 Thai companies whom were selected and mentored for about 2 months will showcase their newly designed material from the project at LifeX Design in Tokyo International Gift Show and the coming STYLE Bangkok.

Nappi Baby, a brand of baby products made from bamboo fiber, understands the mother's concern in caring for babies with sensitive skin. Nappi Baby believes that the safety and comfort are the beginning point of baby's good development. Due to environment-friendly raw material selection and production process, every product of Nappi Baby is designed and manufactured carefully with concern of the comfort and safety for the baby. Bamboo muslin diaper is a premium A-grade muslin diaper which uses bamboo fiber in weaving mixed with organic cotton (in the ratio of 70% bamboo fibers and 30% organic cotton). Since the bamboo fibers are porous like sponges, it gives a touch that is fluffier than cotton and general synthetic fabric. Moreover, the bamboo fibers are better and 3-time quicker to absorb liquid than general fabrics but still very breathable. Therefore, the baby feels comfortable and be in a good mood without irritability which helps the parents to relieve anxiety.

Consumers nowadays have more ways to reflect their lifestyle and individual identity through fashion. In that vein, jewelry with meaningful characters has been crafted from miniature clay works using Thai consonants and the characters associated with each letter, leading to miniature jewelry, such as pendant and earrings, etc. This idea can then be crafted into English letters or even a person's name.

Impressionism is not just what we commonly see in paintings but can be seen in the hand embroidery from the skill and imagination of inmates of Chiang Rai prison. The Ban San Kong embroidery group conveys different types of embroidery methods, allowing inmates to communicate the emotions and feelings of impressionism through multicoloured threads on fabric, resulting in emotional pieces of art, a remarkable experience, masterpieces that creates pride, and a source of income and pride for inmates.

“Soil Scented Pillow Spray” helps promote comfortable and relaxing sleep, leaving you feeling refreshed when you wake up. Inspired by the smell of damp soil after the first raindrops touch the earth, microbes in the soil secrete Geosmin, a compound that emits a cool, earthy fragrance that is released when exposed to droplets of rain. A perfume designer expertly combined roots and grasses with minerals from the soil along with extracts from nine flowers to create this pure aroma that is like a gift from the ground.

POR LAEW DEE

The Department of International Trade Promotion created Porlaewdee The Creator Program to strengthen Thai entrepreneurs' abilities to overcome crises that affect business operations. It adopts the Sufficiency Economy philosophy of His Majesty King Bhumibol Adulyadej, the late King Rama IX, as a guideline for Thai entrepreneurs to represent Thai brands to the world with dignity and grace. Without ignoring the value of Thai identity, it encourages businesses to operate with conscientiousness, charm, and balance without aiming solely for profit, but instead conducting business in a manner according to the competence, concept, and philosophy of His Majesty's idea of Sufficiency Economy.

The Sufficiency Economy approach consists of three principles: self-knowledge, which is comparable to performing a SWOT analysis, rationality (also known as Strategic Management), and immunity, which is similar to Risk Management, taking into account two related conditions: knowledge and morality.

In 2020, 15 Thai-branded exporters were selected to join the project in three product groups: food/agriculture, health/beauty, and handicrafts/lifestyle products. The Sufficiency Economy was incorporated in business operations, branding, and in consideration of overall society to help entrepreneurs become international Thai brand operators capable of finding balance between healthy business operations and social responsibility.

“SAN PAD Collection” of RENIM PROJECT is inspired by a traditional Thai hand fan which has been creating for decades by Thai wisdom. A hand-fan is normally use in a kitchen to cook with stove also can be used as a fan to release the heat. This local craftsmanship created from bamboo woven crafted by hand. RENIM PROJECT aims to continue Thai craftsmanship, a valuable traditional Thai hand-fan technique by designing bags which remade from 5 vintage jeans, cut them into lines with technique of ear jeans to make them stronger. Using the same technique with 5 leftover cement bags, cut into lines. Hand woven recycled jeans and leftover cement bags together as the technique of a traditional hand fan, lining inside the bag with a leftover cement bag as well to decrease its weight and decorating some part with waste of real leather from a factory. RENIM PROJECT designs and creates these bags to encourage people to value recycled waste and help each other decreasing waste of our world. Thai Num Choke Textile's (NaturTexx) yarns and fabrics are meticulously designed and produced as a reflection of our innovative spirit and green concerns. The products we innovate must be beneficial and valuable to all stakeholders right from the start at the plantations to the end customer's hands. These yarns and fabrics are made from cotton, spun with various natural fibers extracted from agricultural inedible leftovers such as lotus stem, banana trunk, galangal stem, pineapple leaves, kapok, and silk. Dyeing with vernacular plant extracts such as betel nuts, tea leaves, tropical almonds leaves, natural indigo, and lac make these fabrics holistically eco-friendly. These products are strong, durable, and has a unique texture to them. By using our materials, customers can enjoy and be sure that they are a part of the solution to reducing pollution, food waste, and supporting all the stakeholders in the supply chain to a better quality of life.

STYLE BANGKOK COLLABORATION 2020

STYLE Bangkok is an international trade fair that offers a stunning variety of lifestyle products ranging from fashion and leather products to gifts and housewares as well as furniture. It not only attracts buyers and visitors from all over the world but also unites creative talents and visionary entrepreneurs who are the driving force behind the fair's exhibits.

To make STYLE Bangkok even greater, the Department of International Trade Promotion (DITP) organizes the STYLE Bangkok Collaboration - a project that fosters creativity and innovation by encouraging entrepreneurs of different specialties to share resources, insights and expertise. The project enlists 32 participants who work together to design, produce and market a total of 20 new products under the guidance of professionals from various fields. The synergy of each designer's strengths and unique style means a whole new generation of innovative products with infinite potential.

STYLE Bangkok Collaboration aims to create more variety in Thai lifestyle products, boost entrepreneurs' manufacturing potential, attract more buyers and visitors to the STYLE Bangkok fair and ultimately increase the export value in the segment.

The beautiful synergy of 5ive Sis, Divana and Pasaya offers a relaxing, therapeutic experience before bedtime with aroma therapy kits that include mini room fragrance (Lotus & Rose - strategically extracted by Divana to represent the East and West), collagen-infused eye mask for the “Bliss Travel Set” and collagen-infused pillow for the “Blossom Home Set” - both through the courtesy of Pasaya’s collagen fabric technology. Additionally 5ive Sis’ flower-shaped pewter container doubles as a vase when fragrance is depleted.

With visually contrasting portfolios, it is no wonder that the amalgamation of Black Sugar, Deesawat and Pasaya produces a new hybrid in furniture design. Mix Deesawat's vivid colour scheme in teakwood furniture with Black Sugar's monochromatic panache in fashion design and throw in Pasaya's massive variety of fabric options. The result is what could be the world's first fashion furniture - the "Fashion Bench".

Anatta, a Buddhist concept of “no-self”, is an implication of how 3 eco-designers check their “Sense of Self” at the door as they step out of their comfort zone to co-create a new masterpiece. The design DNAs of Boxbox, Eggwhite and Thais are resourcefully synergized throughout the making of “Anatta”- a multi-purpose eco bench. Made of rubberwood (Eggwhite), recycled leather (Thais) and eco-plastic (Boxbox), Anatta also serves as a shoe storage bench, pairing maximum comfort with functionality.

Shine/Shade is a “Reimagined Cockpit Area” with an environmentally conscious concept. In this collaboration project, Glisten and Kun Decorate use recyclable aluminum as the main frame for durability and shiny, decorative materials for a “glistening” surface. The result has a visually stimulating effect as the light-deflecting materials shimmer playfully. Moreover, Shine/Shade is resistant to sunlight and temperature fluctuations which means it is good for outdoor use.

Glisten and Vanzter conceptually translates the vibrant colours of Bangkok and its dazzling city lights into a design brimming with stories from the street side. The rebellion of urban society is thematically materialized into a bag. Experimental materials from automobile industry wastes are woven into the strength of titanium as the playful rainbow gradient of a motorcycle exhaust pipe triumphs into the night. "The Bangkok Rebellion" collection insinuates a driving force of change in the society.

Hand-pleated fashion brand Issi teams up with modern silk purse specialist Salete in a style collaboration that draws inspiration from the traditional Thai worshipping ceremony. With a simplified, geometric shape of a “Parnpum” - a traditional flower tray, “Buang Suang” is a collection of handbags that reflect tradition and modernity. The drawstring and wide bottom offer practicality and the hand-sewn tucks create a pattern that highlights the colour, texture and shine of Thai silk.

Inspired by sprouting young leaves that unfold into maturity, the whimsical decorative art piece by Korakot x Tima requires carpentry and traditional kite making skills as well as artistry. Tima's wood joinery techniques from years of making bird cages are what holds the wooden leaves together at the base while Korakot's kite framing and threading skills bring the leaf tips together in a wire-like outline, wrapped in fabric prints suggestive of geometric leaf veins. The structure casts intricate tree-like shadows on the floor when light hits.

Inside, the scented candles boast a mixture of natural essential oils of flowers and herbs.

T-STYLE THAI SPIRIT

As part of T-Style or Thailand Style, ‘T-Style: Thai Spirit’ showcases the agility of Thai manufacturers and designers, something that the world is looking for at the moment. We have high quality manufacturers and creative designers, and with these people we can create and develop products that match the changing needs of consumers in these uncertain times. We also have a group of designers who can transfer the Thai spirit to authentic products with unique characters.

The concept of ‘Thai Spirit’ combines high quality manufacturing, design flexibility and human touch together. With these unique value propositions, products that are designed and manufactured in Thailand will have a future in global markets. ‘T-Style: Thai Spirit’ has curated a collection of Thailand’s leading manufacturers and designers that have a potential to grow further in the global market. The collection can be divided into two groups, which are ‘T-Style Brands’ which are leading lifestyle product manufacturers, and ‘T-Stylers’ which present internationally-recognized Thai designers. The collection is empowered by a list of winners of the Design Excellence Award (DEmark), one of Asia’s most prestigious design awards known as ‘the Oscars of the Thai design industry’. The two collections share one common goal, which is to promote Thai design in the global market through publications in Thai and international media and exhibitions in world-class showcases.” The Department of International Trade Promotion hopes that the launch in a global platform like MOM will make the world see Thai designers and brands in a new light. When the Thai Spirit, technical skills and creativity of Thai designers are matched with high quality, world- class manufacturing standards and digital savvy, the results are extraordinary Thai creations that can be in the same league as the world’s design leaders. Luxury home décor brand 5ive Sis creates with “tin minerals”, a pewter material that elevates decorative pieces to truly show-stopping levels. 5ive Sis turns pewter and precious metal wares into luxurious home decoration pieces that are delicate, exquisite and show-stopping. Start conversations with visiting guests at your home with distinctive works embedded with Oriental designs and zodiac motifs. The luxury home décor brand derived its name from the founders: five sisters who come from a family with a background in producing pewter materials and crafting tin. Seeing the value of pewter pieces that come from a mixture of silver and tin, 5ive Sis elevates the material into delicate decoration items that showcase Thai culture and beliefs. Designs exude an Oriental feel with zodiac motifs, while maintaining extremely modern aesthetics and functionality for practical, everyday use. Today, one of the brand’s best-selling items includes twine glasses decorated with birth month flowers, chess icons or 12 zodiac signs. The studio constantly explores new technologies, and other precious metals such as 24k gold and copper are also designed into products suited as premium gifts. In order to connect the history of the past to the present, Sumphat has gone on journeys to learn about long-lost craftsmanship and to revive it through design. Driven by the Wabi Sabi philosophy, the works of Sumphat celebrate the beauty of human imperfections that enables us to feel. “We feel nothing from perfection, but we always feel something from imperfections,” explains Rush Pleansuk. As a result, each piece by Sumphat, which is created by hand, is truly emotional and one-of-a-kind. Sive Sis’s wine glass collections draw inspiration from Asian elements, from the Chinese zodiac to auspicious flowers and animals. Combining the brand’s signature pewter with lead-free crystal, the glasses can be used as wine glasses or decorative items.

Ango creates sustainable home furnishing like lighting products and furniture from the local wisdom of craftsmanship and indigenous materials. Working collaboratively with architects, interior designers or project owners, Ango customizes designs for specific spaces and works for special requests – creating the design, making lighting pieces and exporting the finished products directly to customers. Ango creates sustainable products using low energy and focusing on handmade techniques. Handcrafted lighting is their specialty. The studio brings local techniques from artisans across Thailand, mainly from the Isan (north-eastern) region, blending such skills with their unique design. Using the technique of hand weaving and hand welding to connect points of the structure, Ango's designers choose different natural materials found in Thailand such as silk cocoon, rattan and mulberry tree bark to create products. Ango always admires and respects the local wisdom of craftsmanship. For example, the Halo Table Light marks one of the jewelry table lights created by Ango. With double layers of hand soldered wire matrix technique, the brass plated light is a spectacular handcrafted item that makes any living space unique and sophisticated.

Thai industrial designer/artist Anon Pairot turns underrated local inspirations into stylish objects. Famous for his sense of humor and quirky designs, Bangkok-based Anon Pairot keeps experimenting on shapes, forms and materials with art, playfulness and innovative ideas. Art and design might be considered two different worlds, but these two arenas collide in the universe of Anon Pairot, a rising designer based in Bangkok. Injecting art into every piece of work, Pairot has turned his designs into some kind of objets d'art, blending functions with emotional aesthetics and a hint of Thai culture. A mechanical engineering graduate, Pairot found his passion in industrial design and decided to further his study in this field. After an internship at London's Royal College of Art, he returned to Bangkok to establish his design studio Anon Pairot Design Studio. Since then, Anon Pairot has worked with numerous global brands, from Fendi and Phillippe Morris to Grohe and Heineken. His furniture designs have been displayed in the most prestigious places like Vitra Design Museum and Philippe Starck's design hotel. In 2017, he attracted global attention with his outstanding work Chiangrai Ferrari, showcased at the Venice Biennale. Recently, Anon Pairot has shifted his focus more to art. As a result, his creations have turned into much-coveted objets d'art that make every space more interesting.

Atelier Pichita creates wearable art by fusing fashion and sophistication with hand-woven techniques and local textiles. Clothes created at Atelier Pichita are one-of-a-kind for their hand embroidery and natural colour dyes. Textiles attained from local Thai artisans are fashioned into contemporary and striking collections suited for an international audience. A long-standing name in Thai fashion, Pichita is considered one of the pioneers of the industry. Its founder, Pichitra Boonyarataphan, launched her first design line in 1980 to national acclaim, after graduating from Chambre Syndicale de la Couture in Paris. She has since been dressing some of the most prominent women in Thailand and abroad –including members of the Thai Royal family. With the craftsmanship and utmost mastery of bringing the richest of fabrics together, the clothes made at this atelier evoke masterpieces on the haute couture level. Creating a unique twist with textiles attained from local Thai artisans and other natural materials, the fashion house supports and champions the wisdom of Thai hill tribes and villagers. Today, Atelier Pichita's timelessly sophisticated designs continue their legacy of fashioning local textiles into clothing lines for both women and men, accessories and home decor items. A design brand that makes traditional Thai weaving works recognized on the global stage. In the world of mass production in which everything looks the same, imperfection can be a charm. This wabi-sabi philosophy is the concept of BaanChaaN, a Thai design brand that highlights the allure of human touch through a series of creations featuring traditional weaving techniques by local artisans. Founded by two sisters who are craft enthusiasts, BaanChaaN has introduced contemporary Thai craft to the world, with the works present in luxury resorts and restaurants across the world, from Mauritius to France, the United States and Abu Dhabi. BaanChaaN's signature is to integrate materials like leather, ropes and metal into their creations to create innovative textures. The combination of different materials also enables designers and artisans to experiment with new patterns and techniques. All the works are hand-made, so each piece has its own character. Apart from craftsmanship, BaanChaaN also focuses on functionality. For example, the lamps can be used independently or can be put together to create a chandelier.

Bangkok-based wood maker Deesawat offers contemporary green furniture pieces that can fit both indoor and outdoor spaces. Deesawat has established itself as a global player in the wooden furniture industry, offering understated indoor and outdoor furniture pieces that showcase the beauty of their materials. Since 1972, Deesawat has become a household name in the global furniture market as a Thai brand that creates balance between natural materials, minimalistic style and sophisticated manufacturing. Its factory spans a space of 30,000 square meters, housing more than 200 skilled workers who produce various wood-based products, from doors and windows to furniture, building materials and custom-made pieces. Starting from sustainable plantation-grown or reclaimed teak wood, Deesawat has evolved through time, expanding into other kinds of materials like aluminum, stainless steel and synthetic rattan. The brand focuses on showcasing the beauty of the materials and superior Thai carpenter skills through simple yet elaborate designs. Empowered by high manufacturing standards, Deesawat can cater to the needs of customers in every segment, from an individual client to large corporates. Dots Design Studio is a Bangkok-based multidisciplinary design studio that focuses on experimenting with innovative design processes and various materials. Dots is a one-stop service design brand whose work covers product, interior and space design. It was co-founded in 2002 by Krit Phutpim, an award-winning design director. The brand has been known for their well-rounded services and well-finished designs, driven by a team of experts: designers, communication designers, interiors and strategists. They work in harmony to connect the dots that other people miss, by seeing the bigger picture while remaining detail-oriented. As such, they aren't afraid of having fun using experimental processes and various materials, such as wood, metal and leather. It's easy to run out of fingers to count all of Dots's project collaborations, products, art installations, and interior and exterior designs. The brand has also made waves for its Dot's Object lifestyle products brand, with the uniqueness of "Plybike", a wooden bicycle. Also, the studio has launched a reinterpretation of the traditional Thai herbal inhaler as a cooler version called "Arma Herbal". From architecture to furniture products, Korakot Aromdee attracts the global spotlight by matching modern design with folk crafts and sustainable natural materials. It can be said that the design profession of rising Thai designer Korakot Aromdee was born out of his passion for art. When he was young, he spent his free time sketching. He even turned that passion into a thesis for his undergraduate degree at Burapha University. But things changed when he decided to further his studies at the Faculty of Applied Arts at Silpakorn University, where he was encouraged to integrate local crafts into his work. It was then he looked back to his heritage and decided to turn what he was familiar with the most, which are fishing and the art of kite making, into designs. The ropes used in fishing and the bamboo for making kites are put together to create stunning works, creating a new source of income for people in his community that used to depend on the fishing seasons. Lamunlamai.Craftstudio creates ceramic crafts with hands and heart. Lamunlamai.Craftstudio blends Thai craftsmanship skills with an industrial approach to increase scale in terms of value and production processes. Nol Netprom and Nopkamol Akarapongpaisan followed their hearts to make crafts cool again. Starting with a studio on the rooftop of Nol's house, the duo developed the concept of ceramic pottery products for daily use. Today, the first thing that comes to mind when the term "lamunlamai" pops up is pastel (think light, gentle hues – the name itself means soft, tender or mellow in Thai). When Nol experimented on porcelain colour coatings, the palette came out giving off warm, homey vibes. The name of the brand thus derived from such tones, to define the products with a touch of gentleness. In addition to colour coating, Nol also imparts an expertise in techniques, while Nopkamol loves to apply texture in her works, delivering messages and feelings through objects. Since the founding of the brand in 2012, Lamunlamai.Craftstudio has enchanted a global audience with its authentic, statement-making stance, offering ceramic pottery products as well as design services via custom-made tableware and cutlery for a chef's table and art installations. Lamunlamai can be interpreted as providing three core-characteristics: the homey and warm vibes of design, the integration of expertise and the balance of customer needs with the brand identity. To date, it has collaborated with many brands, from decorative wall art with Starbucks to custom-made tableware for two-Michelin-starred restaurant Sorn. The latter changed Thailand's food scene, creating conversations between chefs and diners through custom-made tableware. The gentle vibes of the products result from the integration of the founders' experiences and skills. For Noi and Nopkamol, having the "lamunlamai approach" is the foundation for efficient, non-verbal communications with clients and end-users. The approach can be adapted for the pandemic, where, for example, custom designed cutlery and tableware for fine dining restaurants help to enhance the culinary experience without crossing social distancing lines. The firm has also increased productivity, having up-to-date online platforms to keep up with their clients. Lamunlamai. Craftstudio is expanding into Europe and the United States, fueled by the positive feedback from their exhibitions in Maison&Objet, Paris. Aiming to produce more product lines that speak for clients in selected stores and art galleries, the brand is tirelessly developing their signature colour coating and textures with a twist of Thai craftsmanship through materials and production processes.

Starting from a small local handicraft shop in Chiang Mai province in 2008, in the northern part of Thailand, Moonler gradually developed its passion in local wood craftsmanship to become a large wood production and product distribution brand. With the expertise of wood making furniture, which has been passed through the generations, Moonler grew and expanded its production facilities and capabilities to its current premise of 4,000 square meters. This expansive space encompasses a wood workshop, metal workshop and showroom, located at Moonler's hometown, Doi Saket district in Chiang Mai. However, having only an expertise in handcrafted wood would not be enough for Moonler to thrive; design and creativity mark important factors in their evolution as well. Moonler, therefore, has invited many young designers to be part of the furniture making process, enhancing the traditional wood craftsmanship with fresh ideas and design savvy. Since its inception, Moonler has become one of the experts in the design and manufacturing of wooden furniture, especially Monkey Pod Wood, which is Moonlers' main raw material. Moonler's collections are well-designed and delicately made, focusing on natural styling, clean lines, simple allure and contemporary aesthetics. Throughout the process of production and material use, Moonler's collections remain environmentally friendly. Meanwhile, the brand is committed to extending itself via more collaborations and development with the local community. They also continue to make Thai wooden furniture to be known and accepted as a green and high-quality product with aesthetics that reflect local craftsmanship and skills.

PiN Metal Art gives new life to metal waste, creating distinctive pieces from discarded scraps. PiN Metal Art transforms scrap metal waste from industrial production processes into unique art installations, objects and home décor – giving new life and value to waste materials. Growing up with a family-owned steel company, designer Saruta Kiatparkpoom (“PiN”) merges industry, creativity, craftsmanship and sustainability to upcycle worthless steel debris from her father’s factory. What results are meticulously crafted home décor pieces that include chandeliers, mirrors and other compelling works. Her contemporary designs are inspired by her mission to create a “New Life of Waste, New Life of Welder,” as well as by the stories, forms and meanings of Thai living. PiN Metal Art is a brand ahead of its time. Since the beginning, long before the birth of reuse and recycle trends, PiN Metal Art has transformed worthless steel debris into eye-catching masterpieces. Apart from the circular concept, PiN Metal Art also focuses on experimenting with new ideas and techniques.

Prempracha leads one to discover the aesthetic pleasure of local Thai ceramics. Recognized as one of the top ceramics manufacturers in Thailand, Prempracha intends to showcase the premium quality of Thai ceramics with universally appealing design. Since its establishment in 1986, Prempracha has never ceased to develop design processes and techniques to make fine handmade stoneware. The company offers a full-service ceramic studio and factory located in Chiang Mai province in the northern part of Thailand. To keep local Thai ceramics and stoneware appealing to the international market, Prempracha has continuously embarked on development efforts for reaching excellence in ceramic design and quality. Bringing together talented young and creative designers and local skilled artisans, the company has managed to pass through both prosperous and more challenging times. Continuing to produce a few new collections every month, Prempracha currently has created over 1,000 unique designs of fine handmade ceramics and stoneware, including tableware, vases, wall art, stools, washbasins, decorative items and garden accessories. All such hand-made products are durable and exquisite, with the certification of food safety and microwave safety. Prempracha is committed to developing its own hand-made ceramic skills, and is expecting to make the brand known as a large scale manufacturer of artistic ceramics with high quality and unique innovative ceramics coating techniques.

Edgy graphic art makes every product outstanding at SRINLIM. SRINLIM is a design studio that delivers home-decor products with an edgy appearance. Thanks to the studio's expertise in creating bold and eye-catching graphic art, SRINLIM has collaborated with many furniture and home-decor brands to produce one-of-a-kind collections that will make any space at your home stand out. Sarinya Limthongtip started her path in design with a degree from the Faculty of Fine Arts at Bangkok University. She then pursued a master's degree in Textile Design from Chelsea College of Art and Design in London. "London is where I lived my life as an artist to the fullest," says Sarinya, expressing her thanks to London's artistic environment, which led her to become the successful designer she is today. Returning to Thailand, Sarinya worked with a furniture company for a while before establishing her own brand, 'SRINLIM', when she joined a 'Talent Thai' contest with DITP. Her first collection was launched during that time with inspiration from the beauty of peacocks. The collection transformed the colours and patterns on a peacock's feather into a distinguished graphic design on pillows and upholstery.

Bangkok-based brand Sumphat Gallery creates luxury design objects with senses and sensibilities as well as with humanistic designs. Founded by architect and designer Rush Pleansuk and photographer Phillippe Moisan, Sumphat Gallery praises local wisdom and human skills through collaborations with local craft communities to create outstanding collections. In Thai, the word “sumphat” means “touch”, and that is the intention of the brand’s founders architect and designer Rush Pleansuk and photographer Phillippe Moisan. Together, they aim to create works that have the heart and soul. Sumphat or Sumphat Gallery has thus worked with numerous craft communities across Thailand to create collections of luxury objects that blend modern design with traditional craft techniques. In order to connect the history of the past to the present, Sumphat has gone on journeys to learn about long-lost craftsmanship and to revive it through design. Driven by the Wabi Sabi philosophy, the works of Sumphat celebrate the beauty of human imperfections that enables us to feel. “We feel nothing from perfection, but we always feel something from imperfections,” explains Rush Pleansuk. As a result, each piece by Sumphat, which is created by hand, is truly emotional and

With more than 30 years of experience, The Carpet Maker aims to create a better world with its carpet and lifestyle products. In short, The Carpet Maker is an upcycling brand that aims to tackle the plastic waste problem with creativity. Realizing that more than half of the plastic produced went straight to the landfills, the brand came up with a way to put plastic waste into a good use by turning it into high-quality carpets. Plastic bottles are upcycled and turned into yarns that are water-repellent, stain-resistant, flame retardant with velvety soft texture. The yarns are then made into a variety of products, from carpets to lifestyle products. As an innovative brand, The Carpet Maker recently introduced its new AVA line, which consists of lifestyle products made of antiviral and allergy-free upcycling yarn.

THINKK Studio makes everything possible with the perfect combination of creativity and Thai uniqueness. Being confident in the influence of design and creativity, THINKK Studio, a Bangkok-based studio, creates various products by seamlessly blending local traditional values with modern world needs and sensibilities. THINKK Studio is a notable Thai design studio that was established in 2008 by Decha Archjananun and Ploypan Theerachai, two world-class designers. The design concepts of THINKK Studio have harmonized research and experiments with a sense of fun and creativity, which are then applied to and combined with the unique features of Thai qualities. Since the beginning, THINKK Studio has always blended various global concept designs such as Scandinavian aesthetics with “Thainess”, whether in materials usage or production processes. There are many works produced for leading world brands from the studio. Most have been recognized for their premium quality and design by many remarkable institutions.

THINKK Studio also closely cooperates and provides consultations for local communities via many public and government projects. For example, the studio worked with the SUPPORT Arts and Crafts International Centre of Thailand (SACICT), Thailand Creative & Design Center (TCDC) and Department of International Trade Promotion (DITP).

Moreover, to support Thailand’s creative industry, THINKK Studio has spearheaded the formation of a Thai young blood designer group, the Design PLANT, since 2013. One of the outstanding joint projects between THINKK Studio and a local village is SARN Collection, which collaborates with a community in Prachinburi province to add more value to their palm weaving handicraft product to export overseas. Most of THINKK Studio collections intend to present an unorthodox overview of the contemporary Thai designing and manufacturing landscape. All collections pass through meticulous co-research and experiments with local Thai manufactures and craftsmen, incorporating industrial processes, innovative technologies and the artistry and heritage of Thai handicrafts. Apart from continually creating small decorative items, THINKK Studio plans to expand their product line into the furniture market and launch other products that serve the needs for architectural or interior design. Meanwhile, the studio will do more research and experimentation with local Thai manufactures and craftsmen that incorporate industrial processes, innovative technologies and artistry heritage handicrafts. The latter encompasses bamboo and rattan wicker works from different local communities.

Initiated with an aim to create the new definition of the luxury of jewelry, the designer creates the piece by capturing droplet in nature and invents the innovation for jewelry production where the glass is used as its body. Touched by sunlight, the jewelry glitters with light and diamond-like sparks will make it as beautiful as shifting diamond. The most impressive moment is when the right angle reflects a tiny rainbow.

YAKAWVAN, known for mixing real leather bag with hill tribe handwoven silk, launched a new product collection "Ka-Yan" showcasing a rucksack and a duffle bag. This collection takes inspiration from the Thai long neck karens where the black and yellow silk patched onto the bag are in concave shape to create visual similarities to the long neck accessories the karens wore. Further distinctiveness is enhanced through putting multiple brass rings on the bag straps and handles to create even more links to the inspiration.

THAI STYLE SOLUTION

Design as post-pandemic solutions: Thailand is building a resilient economy from creativity and the country's design DNA

The world has changed irrevocably after COVID-19. In a few days, the coronavirus spread across continents, bringing economic activity to a standstill. People, businesses, nations are being forced to adjust their living, strategies and policies to respond to the new norms.

To highlight the capacity of Thailand's creative and design industries, the Department of International Trade Promotion (DITP), Ministry of Commerce, has initiated 'Thai Style Solutions', the new global campaign to promote Thai products and design services as alternative solutions for the post pandemic world, offering new perspectives on the future of sustainable growth.

Mr. Somdet Susomboon, the Director General of the Department of International Trade Promotion (DITP), said that "The COVID-19 outbreak has caused global economic stagnation and supply chain disruption on a never-before-seen scale. At the same time, the environmental problems have accelerated. The path to recovery is therefore different. The growth strategy for the future will not be the same as the pre-COVID world.

Now the world is facing multidimensional crises. But there is always a solution to every problem, and Thai Style Solutions could be a future-proof model for those who are looking for new ways to create a better life in these challenging times.

Thai Style Solutions consist of five aspects:

1.Creative solution

Combining Thai creative talents and flexible manufacturing, Thailand's ability to create and adapt quickly is a huge advantage for today's fast-changing demands. Thai designers and makers can work collaboratively from idea to final product in a very short period of time.

2.Design Solution

The pandemic has a huge impact on many businesses especially the service sector which require a high degree of human interaction. Nevertheless, Thailand's service industry manages to overcome the limitation of remote working by exploiting technology and human sensibility. Design service businesses from interior, graphic, to packaging design continue to thrive, thanks to growing demands from overseas.

3.Growth Solution

From environmental crisis to income inequality, rethinking the future of growth is an urgent agenda. Thailand's path to a sustainable economy is to link local craft businesses to global supply chains by encouraging forward-thinking designers to work collaboratively with traditional craftspeople and local communities. The results are innovative lifestyle products with a touch of craftsmanship and job creation across the country.

4.Green Solution

Thailand's creators have long been eco-minded before global warming became a mega trend. When combining Thai designer's ability to think out of the box with environmentally-friendly practices, the results are innovative green solutions, from advanced bamboo materials to upcycling furniture and recycled textile. As the country is heading to a green manufacturing nation, making business with Thailand guaranteed a sustainable future for both your organization and the world.

5.Art Solution

The emergence of Thai artists on the global stage is unprecedented. Thanks to the rise of social media, the curators and art lovers around the world can discover talented Thai artists and designers via online channels. As consumers are looking for unique creative expressions, Thai artists and designers fulfill the demand with state-of-the-art creations. Experience eco-unique, functional and innovative design through the eyes of Apirat Boonruangthaworn. Notable Thai designer Apirat Boonruangthaworn, after realizing that the design of new creative things to respond to the needs of beauty does not have to encroach on the environment, put all his efforts into producing unique, functional and innovative furniture. Under his own design concept, his works are considered a perfect combination of Thainess and environmental friendly sensibilities. After discovering his passion in eco-conscious design, Bangkok-born designer Apirat Boonruangthaworn has dedicated years to gathering knowledge and honing techniques in order to discover his own path of design and creativity. Apirat's furniture and decoration design strictly revolves around the concepts of being simple but exquisite, and innovative but functional. Meanwhile, seriously concerned about the environmental issues, Apirat persists with circular design – meaning his works not only meet the uniquely aesthetic and creative demands, but also serve the criterion of being environmentally friendly. As the global design market keeps evolving to remain dynamic, Apirat has realized that it is his challenge to discover new interpretations of Thainess and crafts in a timely manner. And until now, it can be said that he has successfully found a way to be reminiscent of the past while representing it in new forms along with universal demand. Working as a freelance designer with many leading Thai and foreign manufacturers, Apirat has created a number of outstanding designs ranging from small decorative items to large furniture pieces. Such companies include Yothaka, E.G.C., Hawaii Thai Furniture, Corner43Decor, Deesawat, Practika, Fisher Mobel, Index Living Mall, VIN and VATIN. After years of accumulated experiences, Apirat has partnered with his fellow designers to start up “Our Studio”, a design studio, in 2007. Then in 2010, he established “Apirat Boonruangthawor Studio” to create furniture under his own philosophy, and finally launched his own furniture brand “+SENSE”, which is under his direction. It aims to minimize unnecessary details and maximize a human sense with eco-friendly consciousness in everyday objects. For his next step, Apirat expects to perfectly narrate and combine the sense of Thainess into every piece of his designs. In Apirat’s perspective, Thainess is something that cannot be seen or touched but felt. It is the tender, delicate way of thinking and living by concerning surrounding people and neighborhoods. Therefore, his work not only presents the simplicity and creativity of design but also gives users the experience of some care and thoughtfulness in every detail.

Luxury home décor brand 5ive Sis creates with “tin minerals”, a pewter material that elevates decorative pieces to truly show-stopping levels. 5ive Sis turns pewter and precious metal wares into luxurious home decoration pieces that are delicate, exquisite and show-stopping. Start conversations with visiting guests at your home with distinctive works embedded with Oriental designs and zodiac motifs. The luxury home décor brand derived its name from the founders: five sisters who come from a family with a background in producing pewter materials and crafting tin. Seeing the value of pewter pieces that come from a mixture of silver and tin, 5ive Sis elevates the material into delicate decoration items that showcase Thai culture and beliefs. Designs exude an Oriental feel with zodiac motifs, while maintaining extremely modern aesthetics and functionality for practical, everyday use. Today, one of the brand’s best-selling items includes twine glasses decorated with birth month flowers, chess icons or 12 zodiac signs. The studio constantly explores new technologies, and other precious metals such as 24k gold and copper are also designed into products suited as premium gifts. In order to connect the history of the past to the present, Sumphat has gone on journeys to learn about long-lost craftsmanship and to revive it through design. Driven by the Wabi Sabi philosophy, the works of Sumphat celebrate the beauty of human imperfections that enables us to feel. “We feel nothing from perfection, but we always feel something from imperfections,” explains Rush Pleansuk. As a result, each piece by Sumphat, which is created by hand, is truly emotional and one-of-a-kind. Sive Sis’s wine glass collections draw inspiration from Asian elements, from the Chinese zodiac to auspicious flowers and animals. Combining the brand’s signature pewter with lead-free crystal, the glasses can be used as wine glasses or decorative items.

Ango creates sustainable home furnishing like lighting products and furniture from the local wisdom of craftsmanship and indigenous materials. Working collaboratively with architects, interior designers or project owners, Ango customizes designs for specific spaces and works for special requests – creating the design, making lighting pieces and exporting the finished products directly to customers. Ango creates sustainable products using low energy and focusing on handmade techniques. Handcrafted lighting is their specialty. The studio brings local techniques from artisans across Thailand, mainly from the Isan (north-eastern) region, blending such skills with their unique design. Using the technique of hand weaving and hand welding to connect points of the structure, Ango's designers choose different natural materials found in Thailand such as silk cocoon, rattan and mulberry tree bark to create products. Ango always admires and respects the local wisdom of craftsmanship. For example, the Halo Table Light marks one of the jewelry table lights created by Ango. With double layers of hand soldered wire matrix technique, the brass plated light is a spectacular handcrafted item that makes any living space unique and sophisticated.

Thai industrial designer/artist Anon Pairot turns underrated local inspirations into stylish objects. Famous for his sense of humor and quirky designs, Bangkok-based Anon Pairot keeps experimenting on shapes, forms and materials with art, playfulness and innovative ideas. Art and design might be considered two different worlds, but these two arenas collide in the universe of Anon Pairot, a rising designer based in Bangkok.

Injecting art into every piece of work, Pairot has turned his designs into some kind of objets d'art, blending functions with emotional aesthetics and a hint of Thai culture. A mechanical engineering graduate, Pairot found his passion in industrial design and decided to further his study in this field. After an internship at London's Royal College of Art, he returned to Bangkok to establish his design studio Anon Pairot Design Studio. Since then, Anon Pairot has worked with numerous global brands, from Fendi and Phillippe Morris to Grohe and Heineken. His furniture designs have been displayed in the most prestigious places like Vitra Design Museum and Philippe Starck's design hotel. In 2017, he attracted global attention with his outstanding work Chiangrai Ferrari, showcased at the Venice Biennale. Recently, Anon Pairot has shifted his focus more to art. As a result, his creations have turned into much-coveted objets d'art that make every space more interesting.

Atelier2+ mixes Scandinavian minimalism with a Thai twist. Atelier2+ is a Bangkok-based creative studio whose works are somewhere between art and design, and theoretical and practical. It engages in many forms of creativity, from architecture and art to crafts and design. The studio also collaborates with other design studios located both locally and internationally. Ada Chirakranont and Worapong Manupipatpong graduated in Interior Architecture at KMITL in 2003, and obtained their MFAs from Konstfack, Sweden, in 2009. After moving back home, Ada and Worapong set up a small studio for carpentry work, and founded Atelier 2+ in 2010. The studio's works cover a wide range of art and design, from architecture and interior design to installations, furniture and other collaborations. "We are not only a thinker but also a maker who does not create only buildings and objects, but rather visual culture. I'm not sure how I see myself as a designer, craftsman, architect, or artist...probably, it doesn't really matter." Aiming to incorporate diversity in its works, the studio has been working with different groups of people including communities and entrepreneurs to develop works with diverse styles. "Dialogue" marks a project that the studio is currently developing in collaboration with communities and entrepreneurs, which will produce an eclectic mix of works based on individuals' own inner "dialogue".

Atelier Pichita creates wearable art by fusing fashion and sophistication with hand-woven techniques and local textiles. Clothes created at Atelier Pichita are one-of-a-kind for their hand embroidery and natural colour dyes. Textiles attained from local Thai artisans are fashioned into contemporary and striking collections suited for an international audience. A long-standing name in Thai fashion, Pichita is considered one of the pioneers of the industry. Its founder, Pichitra Boonyarataphan, launched her first design line in 1980 to national acclaim, after graduating from Chambre Syndicale de la Couture in Paris. She has since been dressing some of the most prominent women in Thailand and abroad –including members of the Thai Royal family. With the craftsmanship and utmost mastery of bringing the richest of fabrics together, the clothes made at this atelier evoke masterpieces on the haute couture level. Creating a unique twist with textiles attained from local Thai artisans and other natural materials, the fashion house supports and champions the wisdom of Thai hill tribes and villagers. Today, Atelier Pichita's timelessly sophisticated designs continue their legacy of fashioning local textiles into clothing lines for both women and men, accessories and home decor items. BambunIQUE sets out to create innovative, eco-friendly bamboo furniture and interior decorations. Tough but flexible, bamboo furniture not only makes BambunIQUE a unique furnishing but also meets the needs of environmentally friendly people. After meticulous research, bamboo has been chosen to be the main natural source of material for BambunIQUE, to create innovative, stylish furniture and decorations. These bamboo-made items are developed and produced to offer functional use as well as to express artistic creativity. In the process, BambunIQUE discovered that bamboo is an incredible natural material. The plant grows easily, taking hardly any time to mature, with no harm to the environment; therefore, it serves as the perfect natural source that aligns with the need for future sustainability. And, to avoid damage from moths and mold, BambunIQUE has developed an eco-friendly protective solution that can be applied directly to the bamboo. For more than a decade, BambunIQUE has become the top Thai manufacturer and exporter of bamboo-made interior and decorative furniture, known for great quality and unique styling. Specifically, quality means tough and durable furniture while unique refers to classic contemporary design with the delicate handicraft of local artisans. To remain the lead manufacturer of bamboo home goods, BambunIQUE never stopped its research and development efforts.

Thai artist and designer Korakot Aromdee empowers local communities through design, craftsmanship and sustainable materials. From architecture to furniture products, Korakot Aromdee attracts the global spotlight by matching modern design with folk crafts and sustainable natural materials. It can be said that the design profession of rising Thai designer Korakot Aromdee was born out of his passion for art. When he was young, he spent his free time sketching. He even turned that passion into a thesis for his undergraduate degree at Burapha University. But things changed when he decided to further his studies at the Faculty of Applied Arts at Silpakorn University, where he was encouraged to integrate local crafts into his work. It was then he looked back to his heritage and decided to turn what he was familiar with the most, which are fishing and the art of kite making, into designs. The ropes used in fishing and the bamboo for making kites are put together to create stunning works, creating a new source of income for people in his community that used to depend on the fishing seasons. For many years, Korakot Aromdee has empowered his community through his eye-catching and sustainable designs. The main material, which is the highly durable Seesuk bamboo, is combined with local kite making techniques and fishermen's knotting skills to create striking furniture pieces, sculptures or even architectural elements.

Labrador aims to use high-quality materials to reduce waste. With a belief in high quality raw materials that can be easily recycled, all of Labrador's products are strictly created to be eco-friendly, producing less waste in the production processes and as finished products. Labrador requires that their raw materials are good, high-quality items that are eco-friendly and recyclable; therefore, all of Labrador's products are made from premium quality leather and materials. Such materials accentuate the durability and lifelong attractiveness of Labrador's products, while helping the company reduce waste. For more than a decade, Labrador has never stopped sourcing new eco-friendly materials to be used in the brand's products, including carry-all bags, gadget bags, wallets and stationery items. It can be said that each piece is designed under strict eco-friendly ethics. Meanwhile, the company has launched "Relabrador", which transforms recycled leathers into a fine handmade leather product collection. The company also aims to create products using environmentally friendly innovation processes that consume the least amount of energy possible. Creativity, simplicity and Green awareness are the key concepts of Labrador. These concepts also reflect Thai characteristics that are full of a sense of humor, modesty and aesthetic delicacy. Under those philosophies, Labrador, as a modern craft Lamunlamai.Craftstudio creates ceramic crafts with hands and heart. Lamunlamai.Craftstudio blends Thai craftsmanship skills with an industrial approach to increase scale in terms of value and production processes. Nol Netprom and Nopkamol Akarapongpaisan followed their hearts to make crafts cool again. Starting with a studio on the rooftop of Nol's house, the duo developed the concept of ceramic pottery products for daily use. Today, the first thing that comes to mind when the term "lamunlamai" pops up is pastel (think light, gentle hues – the name itself means soft, tender or mellow in Thai). When Nol experimented on porcelain colour coatings, the palette came out giving off warm, homey vibes. The name of the brand thus derived from such tones, to define the products with a touch of gentleness. In addition to colour coating, Nol also imparts an expertise in techniques, while Nopkamol loves to apply texture in her works, delivering messages and feelings through objects. Since the founding of the brand in 2012, Lamunlamai.Craftstudio has enchanted a global audience with its authentic, statement-making stance, offering ceramic pottery products as well as design services via custom-made tableware and cutlery for a chef's table and art installations. Lamunlamai can be interpreted as providing three core-characteristics: the homey and warm vibes of design, the integration of expertise and the balance of customer needs with the brand identity. To date, it has collaborated with many brands, from decorative wall art with Starbucks to custom-made tableware for two-Michelin-starred restaurant Sorn. The latter changed Thailand's food scene, creating conversations between chefs and diners through custom-made tableware. The gentle vibes of the products result from the integration of the founders' experiences and skills. For Nol and Nopkamol, having the "lamunlamai approach" is the foundation for efficient, non-verbal communications with clients and end-users. The approach can be adapted for the pandemic, where, for example, custom designed cutlery and tableware for fine dining restaurants help to enhance the culinary experience without crossing social distancing lines. The firm has also increased productivity, having up-to-date online platforms to keep up with their clients. Lamunlamai. Craftstudio is expanding into Europe and the United States, fueled by the positive feedback from their exhibitions in Maison&Objet, Paris. Aiming to produce more product lines that speak for clients in selected stores and art galleries, the brand is tirelessly developing their signature colour coating and textures with a twist of Thai craftsmanship through materials and production processes.

Masaya presents the collector's masterpieces in brass casting highest levels of craftsmanship. From the traditional Thai technique used in brass Buddha statue forging to an art-nouveau style of furniture, Masaya is renowned for its unsurpassed bronze work that not only possesses strength, functionality and sturdiness but also gives furniture a luxurious and elegant touch. Designer Apiwat Chitapanya finished his master's degree in Applied Art from Silpakorn University, Bangkok. Having opportunities to design for many companies allowed him to experiment with atypical materials such as stainless steel, metal and brass casting. Apiwat aims to push his design beyond the norms by blending art nouveau and design together to create uniqueness. In order to present this concept, Apiwat chooses materials like brass to depict surreal beauty and unusual shapes that hint of a little fantasy. One of his most famous collections is the Ink collection. Inspired by Chinese paintings, this collection recalls the beauty of ink brush strokes in the forms of a dining chair, stool and bench. With color choices of black and gold, furniture from the Ink Collection can also be adapted with the use of a glass top or colourful upholsteries.

Moonler showcases authentic Thai craftsmanship through the natural beauty of local wood. Combining the notable characteristics of wood with the delicacy of local craftsmanship, Moonler aims to present stylish, high quality Thai wooden furniture. Starting from a small local handicraft shop in Chiang Mai province in 2008, in the northern part of Thailand, Moonler gradually developed its passion in local wood craftsmanship to become a large wood production and product distribution brand. With the expertise of wood making furniture, which has been passed through the generations, Moonler grew and expanded its production facilities and capabilities to its current premise of 4,000 square meters. This expansive space encompasses a wood workshop, metal workshop and showroom, located at Moonler's hometown, Doi Saket district in Chiang Mai. However, having only an expertise in handcrafted wood would not be enough for Moonler to thrive; design and creativity mark important factors in their evolution as well. Moonler, therefore, has invited many young designers to be part of the furniture making process, enhancing the traditional wood craftsmanship with fresh ideas and design savvy. Since its inception, Moonler has become one of the experts in the design and Muuds combines scent and design with an innovative paper diffuser. What if your diffuser could play another part as a beautiful accessory, standing out at your favorite corner? Muuds skips the traditional diffuser sticks and goes straight to paper that can absorb scent and colours. Also, the shape of Muuds's paper diffuser replicates the Thai crown flower, which is well-known for its pleasurable scent. Sudaduang Nakhasuwan launched Muuds as Thailand's first diffuser that has distinguished the brand from other names in the wellness industry. Competitors in the scent-maker market may only focus on their aromas, but Muuds has gone beyond by bringing in intriguing design and advanced technology. Sudaduang started her career as a lecturer at the Faculty of Architecture, Thammasat University, before becoming a mother, which shifted her towards product design, with creations mostly related to paper techniques. Now developing new designs for Muuds, Sudaduang aims to expand the brand's international market. Saran Yen Panya always creates surprises by giving new life to materials we once overlooked. Saran matches unexpected materials to create a bold piece with a story to tell. With his background as a “story-telling” design graduate, he makes sure his products, from furniture to fashion, reflect stories from his surroundings. After graduating from the Department of Industrial Design at Chulalongkorn University, Saran continued to nurture his passion for design by pursuing a master’s degree in Sweden, where he delved deeper into the scope of story-telling design. What he learned from the story-telling design program inspired him to start narrating stories of Thai society through quirky designs. Saran started by interpreting Thailand’s economic disparity and presenting the concept through a chair made from contrasting materials – colourful plastic baskets from the fresh market and Victorian-style wooden legs. Now Saran is expanding his expertise to more collaborations with other brands, including innovative textile design with One More Thing and story-telling design for some online retail platforms. He is setting his marketing direction toward the way of “Industrial craft”, which means attracting customers from the mass market with not-so-mass tastes.

Patapian connects international tastes with the local art of weaving. As weaving reflects a Thai handicraft that is second to none, Patapian has successfully presented such artistry in a way that perfectly meets the demand and aligns with the tastes of modern consumers. Deeply fascinated by weaving and delicate Thai handicrafts, Supattra Kreaksakul and Varongkorn Tienpermpool have established the Patapian brand to create woven housewares and home accessories from various natural materials, such as wood and bamboo. This strong passion brought them to the idea of combining the unique weaving patterns and techniques with other materials to create contemporary daily products. Therefore, not only has Patapian made many unique and outstanding products, the brand also brings nature and local art closer to the lifestyles of people these days. First appearing in a trade fair in Japan, Patapian has since grown its brand internationally. Their works have proved that local Thai handicrafts can be applied to and created into various kinds of products that are completely compatible with urban living concepts. Since the beginning, Patapian has been committed to developing outstanding work, to be accepted and recognized internationally as well as to improve quality and promote Thai traditional handicrafts to be known in the global market. PiN Metal Art gives new life to metal waste, creating distinctive pieces from discarded scraps. PiN Metal Art transforms scrap metal waste from industrial production processes into unique art installations, objects and home décor – giving new life and value to waste materials. Growing up with a family-owned steel company, designer Saruta Kiatparkpoom (“PiN”) merges industry, creativity, craftsmanship and sustainability to upcycle worthless steel debris from her father’s factory. What results are meticulously crafted home décor pieces that include chandeliers, mirrors and other compelling works. Her contemporary designs are inspired by her mission to create a “New Life of Waste, New Life of Welder,” as well as by the stories, forms and meanings of Thai living. PiN Metal Art is a brand ahead of its time. Since the beginning, long before the birth of reuse and recycle trends, PiN Metal Art has transformed worthless steel debris into eye-catching masterpieces. Apart from the circular concept, PiN Metal Art also focuses on experimenting with new ideas and techniques.

Renim Project shows the possibilities of making the green concept go hand-in-hand with high fashion. Believing that we can be both fashionable and eco-friendly, Renim Project works to realize that idea, guided by passion in design and environmental consciousness. Renim Project began its journey after realizing that Thailand, the project's hometown, is one of the third world countries' top destinations of dumped clothing. To help the planet reduce these wastes, and not create new ones, Renim Project steps up by reconstructing the concept of high fashion in terms of REMADE/REDUCE/REDESIGN. The brand recreates, redesigns and rebirths second-hand clothing, jeans and other deadstock from modern agencies and the fashion industry. Meanwhile, to lay claims as a sustainable fashion brand, Renim Project seriously ensures that they take a holistic, 360-degree approach in both sourcing materials and during the production process. Most of the collection is totally made from recycled fabrics, second-hand jeans and cloth, and unused discarded materials, while the process of creation utilizes every small piece that is cut off, to make a new piece of recycled fabric again. Moreover, the brand makes it more sustainable by combining other recycled items to create outstanding,

Rubber Killer has continuously been transforming trash into treasures. Environmentally conscious and creative, Rubber Killer is on a mission to carry forth the business with an anti-consumerism stance, literally killing rubber from the waste cycle. Tires last for approximately 200,000 km, after which they pile up as a burden to Mother Nature at the landfills. But it took a man with an eco-friendly will and sustainable mind, like Saroengrong Wong-Savun, to extend the useful life of inner tubes as quality products under the brand Rubber Killer. When this Chiang Mai based company started up in 2010, the path wasn't a bed of roses; the social perception toward recycled materials was not widely accepted and some boundaries were raised. Rubber Killer went the extra mile to make durable, sustainable and aesthetically unique products out of more than 30,000 recycled inner tubes from all types of vehicles. Every Rubber Killer product is produced from used inner tubes, without any use of fresh-off-the shelves rubber. Other best quality materials and components are used together with the inner tubes, to offer them more room for innovation. Rubber Killer has become one of the nation's most celebrated brands with more than 60 choices of products like messenger bags, tote bags, backpacks, wallets, straps and ankle straps, etc. The tremendous hidden value of such items has made them functional treasures among SARRAN's flower-centric jewellery offers visual appeal while also exuding appealing fragrances.

SARRAN's flower-centric jewellery pieces lets women wear flowers that will never wither. Crafted from recycled material and scented with traditional techniques, his garland-like earrings, bracelets and necklaces are lightweight, lush and luxurious.

Previously an interior designer, Sarran Youkongdee has turned his talent to jewelry design, to convey the grace and charm of Thai women. Inspired by how women of the past accessorized themselves with flowers on their hair and wrists, his jewellery pieces are crafted from recycled material to look like Thai flowers and garlands. Using scenting techniques from the past, these lightweight earrings, bracelets and necklaces also emit floral aromas for up to six months. Every year, the designer also works with different local artisans to incorporate local craft techniques into his collections. This year, Sarran has worked with khone craftsmen and coppersmiths to feed into his work, which comprises two main collections and six capsule collections. With the aim to raise awareness of Thai flowers, a new type of flora is featured every season, with this year showcasing gardenias. As objects of beauty and aromatherapy, Sarran's floral creations aspire to be collectibles for high-powered women across Asia and the world, enabling them to enjoy the deeply embedded stories, benefits and aromas of Thai flowers. Currently, the designer is working on new jewelry coating techniques that utilize local herbs, for easier care and cleaning in a pandemic-ridden world.

Sculpture takes unusual materials and turns them into extraordinary, anything-but-the-usual furniture. Sculpture is a furniture and home design company, best known for its fearless moves in using unusual materials in furniture manufacturing, enhanced with a twist of indigenous Thai weaving techniques. When Katniss Everdeen was taken into the penthouse before the game in The Hunger Games (2012), the 8-story bright green chairs surrounding the glass table caught her eye. It was the first time Katniss and the world saw the Sexy Dining Chairs, but it wasn't the first-time Sculpture experienced success in their work in the furniture industry. The company, founded by Nuttapon Charoenkitivarakorn in 2004, proves that regardless of the company size, having a strong identity can strengthen brand experiences. The brand may have stepped into the global arena when its product "Sexy Dining Chair" made an appearance in the blockbuster The Hunger Games (2012); however, the chairs were created in 2004, receiving the Pinnacle Awards by American Society of Furniture Designs in 2008. With the cutting-edge mindset that you can find inspiration from everything, Sculpture remains its identity to create the brand experience, focusing on making unique products from devalued materials like seat belt strapping. As Sexy Dining Chairs were referred to as "Seatbelt Chairs" among the internet fandom due to the products' main materials, the brand has created various products that feature seatbelt trapping such as the Sleepy Chair, Sway Rocking Chair and Bar Stool. Backed by various awards and winning the hearts of oversea distributors, the signature Sexy Dining Chair and other products are available at their two main showrooms in Bangkok: 4th floor of ICONSIAM and 4th floor of Siam Discovery. Thai craftsmanship's delicateness is woven into every product that screams Sculpture name – without brand tags – by its timeless design and the unusual materials' twist. Sculpture is collaborating with Masaya in the upcoming edition of Style Bangkok 2021. For almost 20 years in the design business, Sculpture's direction focuses on creating new products from unexpected materials with unpredicted techniques. Believing that Covid-19 will radically reshape the furniture industry, Sculpture focuses on building furniture with its signature style to meet the work-from-home surge.

Edgy graphic art makes every product outstanding at SRINLIM. SRINLIM is a design studio that delivers home-decor products with an edgy appearance. Thanks to the studio's expertise in creating bold and eye-catching graphic art, SRINLIM has collaborated with many furniture and home-decor brands to produce one-of-a-kind collections that will make any space at your home stand out. Sarinya Limthongtip started her path in design with a degree from the Faculty of Fine Arts at Bangkok University. She then pursued a master's degree in Textile Design from Chelsea College of Art and Design in London. "London is where I lived my life as an artist to the fullest," says Sarinya, expressing her thanks to London's artistic environment, which led her to become the successful designer she is today. Returning to Thailand, Sarinya worked with a furniture company for a while before establishing her own brand, 'SRINLIM', when she joined a 'Talent Thai' contest with DITP. Her first collection was launched during that time with inspiration from the beauty of peacocks. The collection transformed the colours and patterns on a peacock's feather into a distinguished graphic design on pillows and upholstery.

Bangkok-based brand Sumphat Gallery creates luxury design objects with senses and sensibilities as well as with humanistic designs. Founded by architect and designer Rush Pleansuk and photographer Phillipe Moisan, Sumphat Gallery praises local wisdom and human skills through collaborations with local craft communities to create outstanding collections. In Thai, the word “sumphat” means “touch”, and that is the intention of the brand’s founders architect and designer Rush Pleansuk and photographer Phillipe Moisan. Together, they aim to create works that have the heart and soul. Sumphat or Sumphat Gallery has thus worked with numerous craft communities across Thailand to create collections of luxury objects that blend modern design with traditional craft techniques. In order to connect the history of the past to the present, Sumphat has gone on journeys to learn about long-lost craftsmanship and to revive it through design. Driven by the Wabi Sabi philosophy, the works of Sumphat celebrate the beauty of human imperfections that enables us to feel. “We feel nothing from perfection, but we always feel something from imperfections,” explains Rush Pleansuk. As a result, each piece by Sumphat, which is created by hand, is truly emotional and one-of-a-kind. Sumphat is now

At this design studio, the creatively produced works speak from both the head and heart to tell a compelling story. Focusing on in-depth research and experiments, The Head and The Heart Studio creates innovative design solutions by blending scientific approaches with emotional elements. The Head and The Heart Studio was founded in 2016 by Nham (the head) and Nam (the heart), two film graduates who had gone hand-in-hand to pursue a degree in graphic design in NYC. With their background in film studies, both founders committed to create designs without losing a sense of storytelling, as every design should start from having a vivid idea. The name was derived from the motif and the method of the brand – having scientific approaches toward designing processes to create the products with heart and soul. Having strong positions in niche markets, the brand is looking forward to working with forward-thinking companies of all kinds, bringing innovation and Thai craftsmanship to serve clients' needs from A to Z. Although the pandemic has disrupted the whole world, The Head and The Heart Studio aims to expand into providing more in-depth design advice, as such in the latest edition of DITP: Agricultural Innovation, and focusing on packaging design.

The works of Uni_form Design Studio always open our eyes and minds, with works ranging from the new look of the legendary Thai's rooster bowl to the BNK48 band CDs, among countless others. This design studio was born out of a collaboration between two graphic designers: Wutthipat Somjit and Pariwat A-nantachina. The duo met in university and then headed off exploring their own paths after graduation. Wutthipat worked for the internationally acclaimed magazine Wallpaper*, while Pariwat joined the King Power International corporation. In 2013 their journeys converged once again, at Bangkok University where they both became special lecturers and decided to set up The Uni_form Design Studio to expand their passions for typography and collage art. Today, the studio is widely recognized by its stunning and lively collage works.

THINKK Studio makes everything possible with the perfect combination of creativity and Thai uniqueness. Being confident in the influence of design and creativity, THINKK Studio, a Bangkok-based studio, creates various products by seamlessly blending local traditional values with modern world needs and sensibilities. THINKK Studio is a notable Thai design studio that was established in 2008 by Decha Archjananun and Ploypan Theerachai, two world-class designers. The design concepts of THINKK Studio have harmonized research and experiments with a sense of fun and creativity, which are then applied to and combined with the unique features of Thai qualities. Since the beginning, THINKK Studio has always blended various global concept designs such as Scandinavian aesthetics with “Thainess”, whether in materials usage or production processes. There are many works produced for leading world brands from the studio. Most have been recognized for their premium quality and design by many remarkable institutions. THINKK Studio also closely cooperates and provides consultations for local communities via many public and government projects. For example, the studio worked with the SUPPORT Arts and Crafts International Centre of Thailand (SACICT), Thailand Creative & Design Center (TCDC) and Department of International Trade Promotion (DITP).

Moreover, to support Thailand's creative industry, THINKK Studio has spearheaded the formation of a Thai young blood designer group, the Design PLANT, since 2013. One of the outstanding joint projects between THINKK Studio and a local village is SARN Collection, which collaborates with a community in Prachinburi province to add more value to their palm weaving handicraft product to export overseas. Most of THINKK Studio collections intend to present an unorthodox overview of the contemporary Thai designing and manufacturing landscape. All collections pass through meticulous co-research and experiments with local Thai manufactures and craftsmen, incorporating industrial processes, innovative technologies and the artistry and heritage of Thai handicrafts. Apart from continually creating small decorative items, THINKK Studio plans to expand their product line into the furniture market and launch other products that serve the needs for architectural or interior design. Meanwhile, the studio will do more research and experimentation with local Thai manufactures and craftsmen that incorporate industrial processes, innovative technologies and artistry heritage handicrafts. The latter encompasses bamboo and rattan wicker works from different local communities.

Design pieces by Tithi Kutchamuch provoke fresh perspectives and shake up consumers' expectations. Inspired by life memories, Bangkok-based designer Tithi Kutchamuch creates jewelry and decorative pieces that show the subtle interplay between visual form and perception. The renowned Thai-born jewelry designer Tithi Kutchamuch received her MA in Design Products from the Royal College of Art in 2007 in London, where she lived and worked for several years before relocating to Bangkok. Tithi's unconventional conceptual approach has led her to design a variety of interesting pieces, which cross boundaries between art pieces, decorative objects and functional jewelry. "My work is a medium to document my thoughts or life experiences, at a period of time, in a three-dimensional form. It reflects a little of what I have seen in ordinary everyday life. I'm interested in objects that are not only seen but heard; an object that can speak for itself or that I can talk about." Each of her collections tell different stories. For example, the Pearly White collection reflects her idea of social status. For as long as there were human beings, we have sought to adorn ourselves with symbols of status. Animal and even human teeth were frequently worn by chiefs and high-ranking citizens to denote social status. In many traditions the smooth round pearl is often regarded as an ideal. In the Pearly White collection, Tithi has searched through thousands and thousands of pearls to find the few whose imperfections make them perfect for their new role. Each piece is unique and custom made. On the contrary, Drip aims to add value to the ancient knowledge of metal casting in clay molds found in the 'Pa-aow' village of northeastern Thailand. Tithi said she was overwhelmed by the processes, techniques and most surprisingly, the hours that were spent on each piece when she first visited the village. "Their work was handmade from start to finish, and the material for each batch differed in what metal scrap was available." The Drip prototype was made from a mixture of bullets, wheel valves and broken water taps, as well as bits and bobs from a previous cast through a newly established method Tithi refers to as "dripping wax".

Trimode Studio's creative reinterpretations break cognitive barriers in design. Multi-disciplinary design studio Trimode Studio blends different perspectives to find creative solutions for interior, furniture and jewelry design. Founded over 15 years ago by three designers, each coming from different areas of expertise, Trimode Studio upholds the philosophy that design is boundless. This allows their design services - inspired by the constant reinterpretation of Asian culture - to go beyond cognitive barriers and apply across various fields, from the design of furniture and decoration items to jewelry, graphics, interiors and branding. At Trimode Studio, design does not only serve to create visual impressions, but it is infused with storytelling to offer new experiences and harmonious solutions.

Yothaka furnishes your life with simple, authentic and hand-crafted Thai-style furniture. As the very first Thai furniture brand to step onto the world's furniture and handicraft stage, Yothaka continually creates delicate hand-crafted furniture full of creativity, contemporary touches and authentic design. Yothaka is the pioneer of using water hyacinth to make furniture in Thailand's furniture manufacturing industry, and it remains a notable hand-crafted maker since it was established in 1989. For more than three decades, the company has worked closely with the local community to design and create fine hand-made water hyacinth and rattan furniture as well as other home accessories such as straw boxes, basketry, stationery, etc. To maintain an outstanding brand and remain a leader in the field of high-quality industrial crafts, Yothaka constantly restructures its collections and designs new models every year. As a result, the company now offers a wide range of in-house designed furniture and accessories that creatively combine modern lifestyle concepts with unique Thai wisdom and character. It can be said that Yothaka is unique and different from other competitors because of its original design, using more than 70% of domestic materials, including a variety of environmentally friendly items and a large collection of design works.
